BUFFALO BILL MUSEUM

The Buffalo Bill Museum introduces the life of William F. Cody, also known as Buffalo Bill, and tells his story as a “Man of the West” who became a “Man of the World”.

BUFFALO BILL’S GUN

The “Lucretia Borgia” was Buffalo Bill’s favorite gun. He named it after a character, who was a deadly woman, in an Italian opera. Buffalo Bill used the gun when he hunted buffalo to feed the army. He may have killed over 4,000 buffalo during his time hunting and scouting on the plains.

BUFFALO BILL’S WILD WEST & THE DEADWOOD STAGECOACH

Cowboys, Native Americans, horsemen, and sharpshooters put on a magnificent display in Buffalo Bill’s Wild West, which showed a view of the American West to the world. The Deadwood Stagecoach was used for about seven years in Buffalo Bill’s Wild West. Buffalo Bill invited volunteers from the audience to ride on the stagecoach during the attack!

ANNIE OAKLEY

Annie Oakley was one of the audience’s favorite performers in Buffalo Bill’s Wild West. Sitting Bill called her “Little Sure Shot” due to her superb sharpshooting ability. One of her favorite tricks was to shoot coins from the hand of her husband, Frank Butler.

BEAVER TRIM COAT

This coat is made of buffalo hide with beaver fur trim. Buffalo Bill wore it when he was a scout in the army. Scouts were excellent trackers and outdoorsmen. They went ahead of the group to search for food, water, and danger. Buffalo Bill was considered one of the best.

QUEEN VICTORIA AND THE WILD WEST

The Wild West traveled all over the world. Advance men arrived early in each city to put up posters for the performances. This enormous poster shows William F. Cody bowing to Queen Victoria when the Wild West performed for her in London.

PRINTING PRESS

William F. Cody started the Cody Enterprise in 1899. He and his partner printed the newspaper on this press. Today, the Cody Enterprise still reports the news for Cody, Wyoming.
